All transfers of firearms, whether by sale, lease or loan, including private transactions, must go through a licensed firearms dealer. Any exception to these laws, such as air guns, knives, accessories, certain antiques, and some gun parts that may not require transfer by a licensed dealer, should be first confirmed by you prior to purchase. It is your responsibility to comply with all such laws, including any and all city, county, state and Federal laws when accessing or using this site. It is also your responsibility to locate one or more licensed firearm dealers in your area and/or the area of any buyer or seller listing here who are able and willing to assist you with any such transfer. We do not offer any assistance with respect to locating a licensed dealer for your transaction or otherwise with respect to your transaction. You agree to comply with all applicable laws, statutes, regulations, and ordinances concerning your use of the Site.

Use of Materials:

Any ads or messages that you post, transmit, or otherwise make available for viewing on public areas of the Site will be treated as non-confidential and non-proprietary to you. You understand and agree that any such ads and messages may be used by the Site or our affiliates, without review or approval by you, for any purpose whatsoever, and in any medium, including our print media, if any. You grant the Site (and our affiliates) the irrevocable right to use and/or edit your ads and messages, without review or approval by you, for any purpose whatsoever, including, without limitation, reproduction, disclosure, transmission, publication, broadcast, posting, and advertising in any media in perpetuity without notice or compensation to you.

All real estate advertising is subject to Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968 (Fair Housing Act), as amended. The Site will not knowingly accept any real estate advertising which is in violation of any applicable law. Users are hereby informed that all dwellings advertised on the Site are available on an equal opportunity basis. To complain of discrimination call HUD toll-free at 1-800-669-9777. The toll-free number for the hearing impaired is 1-800-927-9275.

You acknowledge and agree that you will not submit or post any ad which discriminates based on race, color, national origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation, familial status and /or handicap/disability. If you see any ad or posting which discriminates based on any of the above factors, you are encouraged, in addition to contacting HUD, to report such ad or posting by clicking on the "Report this Ad" link located on the ad page. You understand that we shall have the right, but not the obligation, to remove, edit or delete any ad.

What follows are a number of tips and techniques you should keep in mind to protect yourself and your privacy online, whether you are using our site or some other site on the Internet. (Some of these suggestions "repeat" because they apply in multiple situations.) This list is not exhaustive and you should not use it as a substitute for your own common sense. As always, the best protection is to use good judgment and trust your instincts.

Responding to an Ad

Online ads help us find all kinds of different goods and services easily and quickly. It's important to remember that whether you're responding to a rental ad, a job posting, personal or "for sale" ad, you've never met the person behind the ad before. Use caution.

- Don't wire money, or send a check, for an apartment you haven't seen to a person you've never met.
- Don't give out personal information about yourself, such as your social security number, without verifying that a job posting is legitimate.
- Meet people in a public place.
- Don't go check out furniture in someone's house alone. Bring a friend.

Placing an Ad

Online advertising allows us to quickly and effectively reach as many people as possible that are interested in what we're selling or offering. It's important to remember that you may not know the people responding to your ad, so be careful.

- Don't include personal information in an ad, such as your full name or address, and don't post images or content that are prohibited by our Terms of Use or Privacy Policy, like nudity or messages relating to illegal activities.
- Talk to people on the phone before giving them information, like your address, and trust your instincts.
- If someone is coming to check out the sofa you advertised, make sure you're not alone when they arrive.
- If you're selling something portable but expensive, such as a DVD player or a digital camera, consider showing it to people in a coffee shop instead of your home.
- If you're selling a car, make sure you're meeting the person somewhere public for a test drive, bring a friend, and be careful driving home.
- Meet people in a public place.

Safety Tips

- Be careful when purchasing gift cards through auction sites or classified ads; they may be empty or fraudulent.
- Be careful when bidding on auctions for products; they may be stolen.
- Be careful when replying to mystery or secret shopper jobs; you may end up owing all the money to the bank you thought you were getting paid.
- Be cautious when it comes to work-from-home opportunities, especially ones that don't require experience or time.
- Don't give money to an individual claiming to be the victim of a disaster if you don't know them.
- Don't give money to an organization if you haven't heard of it.
- Don't wire money, or send a check, for an apartment you haven't seen to a person you've never met.
- Don't give out personal information about yourself, such as your social security number, without verifying that a job posting is legitimate.
- Meet people in a public place.

Scams and Fraud

No matter where we are or what we're doing, a handful of people can make it difficult for everyone. This is true in the online advertising area as well. Use the same common sense you'd use

Work From Home Scam

How it Works

- Someone places a job ad online looking for a rebate or payment processor.
- You respond and get the job.
- You're asked to provide your bank account info to your new employer to facilitate direct deposits; might sound like a good idea, but it could be dangerous.
- Funds are put into this account and you're told to wire the money to a third account. This account is often international, but not always.
- You get to deduct a percent of the wired amount as your commission or payment.
- You are actually laundering stolen funds through your own account.
- Whether you know you're laundering money or not, you can still be prosecuted.
- The people you gave your bank account info to can also take money from you or steal your identity.

Tips

- Be cautious when it comes to work-from-home opportunities, especially ones that don't require experience or time.
- Be cautious of opportunities that require you to pay for materials or supplies.
- Figure out if the company is legitimate through the Better Business Bureau (for US-based companies) or WHOIS/Domain Tools (for international companies). Also look at the FTC's recommendations: <http://www.onguardonline.gov/topics/email-scams.aspx#3>.
- Never give your bank account details to anyone unless you know and trust them.
- If you think you may be a victim of one of these scams, contact your financial institution immediately. --Report any suspicious work-from-home offers or activities to the Internet Crime Complaint Center (IC3) at <http://www.ic3.gov/default.aspx>

Mystery/Secret Shopper Scam

- You see a job posting for a mystery shopper.
- You are asked to send a resume and told you will undergo a background check.
- You are sent a check that will cover purchases and money wire transactions, with the remaining balance as your payment.
- You are given instructions to shop at a specified retailer for a specific length of time and spend a specific amount on merchandise from the store.
- You are told to take note of the store's environment, color, payment procedures, gift items, and shopping/carrier bags and report back to the employer.
- You are then told you will be checking the ease and accuracy of wiring money from the retail location.
- After the merchandise is purchased and money is wired, the bank tells you that the check cashed was counterfeit, and you are responsible for the money lost in addition to bank fees incurred.
- Occasionally, you will be asked to submit your bank account information so that money can be deposited into your account. The fraudster will then have access to your accounts and be able to withdraw your money.

Rental and Real Estate Scam

If you're posting the rental ad:

- Someone will respond to your ad with an interest in renting or buying the property.
- They will send you a check that is in excess of the amount you indicated, and request you send them the difference.
- They will send you a check that is the exact amount, but back out at the last minute.

- You will think all of the above checks are legitimate and potentially begin using the funds.
- The check(s) will turn out to be counterfeit and the bank will hold you responsible for all losses.

If you're reading the rental ad:

- A scammer will duplicate postings from legitimate real-estate websites and place them on classified advertisement websites.
- The scammer will often use the real-estate agent's real name to create a fake email address.
- When you respond to the ad, the scammer will reply, claiming to be the owner. S/he will say he is out of the country (often on mission work) so you cannot see the property. They will ask you to mail the check (often to a foreign address). They may also ask you to wire money.
- Your check will be cashed or money received, and you will not be able to recover your losses.

Gift Card Fraud

Be careful when purchasing gift cards through auction sites or classified ads. It is safer to purchase gift cards directly from the merchant or retail store. The seller may claim the card holds a certain value, but they may be lying. If you're purchasing a gift card, make sure you meet the seller at the store and have the gift card run through for verification. Additionally, if the gift card merchant discovers that your card is fraudulent, the merchant will deactivate the gift card and refuse to honor it for purchases. Victims of this scam lose the money paid for the gift card purchase.

Auction Sales Fraud

Be careful when bidding on auctions for products. Fraudsters will post ads for items they don't have. They'll charge your credit card (or debit your account) for the item and then use a stolen credit card to buy the actual item and have it shipped to you. They keep your money and you may be liable for receiving stolen products. Buy directly from the product merchant or make sure you research who you're buying products from.

Disaster Scams

Some fraudsters will prey on your desire to help others. Make sure you're only donating to organizations you've heard of, and make sure you're donating directly on their official website. Don't give money to an individual claiming to be the victim of a disaster if you don't know them.

Human Trafficking

Over the past 15 years, "trafficking in persons" and "human trafficking" have been used as umbrella terms for activities involved when someone obtains or holds a person in compelled service.

The United States government considers trafficking in persons to include all of the criminal conduct involved in forced labor and sex trafficking, essentially the conduct involved in reducing or holding someone in compelled service. Under the Trafficking Victims Protection Act as amended (TVPA) and consistent with the United Nations Protocol to Prevent, Suppress and Punish Trafficking in Persons, Especially Women and Children (Palermo Protocol), individuals may be trafficking victims regardless of whether they once consented, participated in a crime as a direct result of being trafficked, were transported into the exploitative situation, or were simply born into a state of servitude. Despite a term that seems to connote movement, at the heart of the phenomenon of trafficking in persons are the many forms of enslavement, not the activities involved in international transportation.

To report a potential victim of Human Trafficking, or if you are a victim yourself or you know someone whom you suspect may be, please call the National Human Trafficking Resource Center (NHTRC) hotline at 1-888-3737-888, or visit: <http://www.polarisproject.org/what-we-do/national-human-trafficking-hotline/report-a-tip>.

Child Exploitation

The National Center for Missing and Exploited Children helps not only locate missing kids, but also helps children that are victims of sexual exploitation of any kind.

If you've seen a missing child, or a child that is being victimized, please take action and make a report to the CyberTipline: www.cybertipline.com.
